Message from JS&MD (HFA) Shri Kuldip Narayan

In the past few weeks at the PMAY-U Mission, we witnessed two important events with the inauguration of AHP houses in Gwalior & the inauguration of Light House Project in Indore by the Hon'ble Prime Minister. With the inauguration of these two projects, we were able to fulfil the housing needs of more than two thousand additional families. The achievements were possible with the coming together of all stakeholders who contributed their best in the successful completion of the projects. The other State level events are also adding to our commitment of providing pucca houses to families.

It has been 8 years since the Mission was launched & the achievements of PMAY-U is courtesy of the effective strategies taken by the Government and the constant reformative measures adopted by the States/UTs which have played a significant role in the successful implementation of PMAY-U all these years. After all, at the end of the day, what we strive for is bringing real change into the lives of people by giving the access to a dignified & safe living environment through a pucca house.

We have so far sanctioned more than 118 lakh houses under the Mission & already delivered over 77 lakh houses to beneficiaries where they are living happily with their families. PMAY-U houses have fulfilled the dreams & aspirations of families across the country & given them a new identity.

Our efforts in providing pucca houses to people is a collective one as when we share our experiences & learnings with each other, we come out with better results.

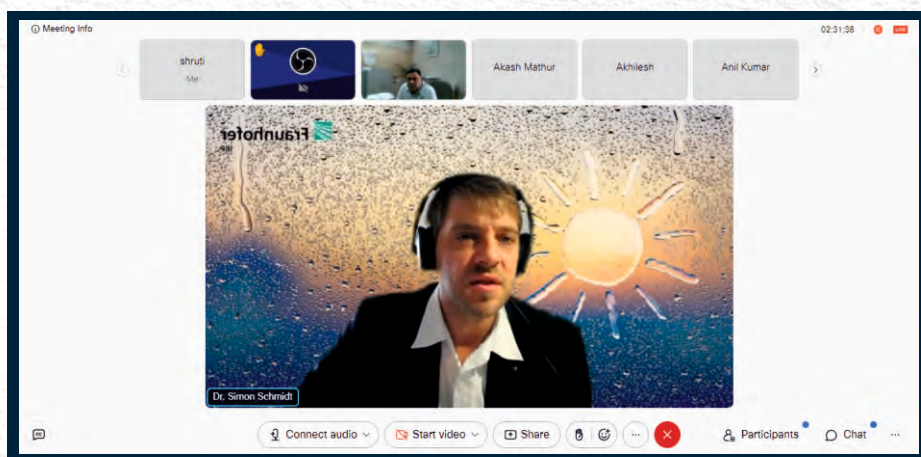

Here's to overcoming all the challenges together, achieving more targets together & celebrating more milestones together as we keep on moving to our goal of 'Housing for All'.

Ghar Hua Apna, Pura Hua Sapna

"After years of struggle, I feel proud to say that today I am the owner of a pucca house and earn my own money," Smt. Prajapati Hetalben Dilipbhai's words express the emotions of what over 77 lakh families have experienced after getting a home which they can call their own for life. The transformation is courtesy Pradhan Mantri Awas Yojana – Urban, under which these families have received Central Assistance to build pucca houses.

To promote empowerment of women, houses under PMAY-U are either given in the name of woman of the household or in joint ownership. With the ownership of a pucca house, women have got a new identity and some of them have also started working from the comfort of their house to support their family financially.

Smt. Prajapati Hetalben is a resident of Gujarat's Nadiad and runs a tiffin service business from her home. She says, "I am financially independent and I could start my business only after I got a home under PMAY-U." Her husband is a daily wage worker and with one person's salary, it was difficult for them to meet the expenses of the family. The house acted as a catalyst in making Smt. Prajapati Hetalben a working woman and also helped them in leading a dignified life.

"I wanted to help my husband since a long time, but due to lack of proper space and resources, I could not move ahead. The dream to start my business appeared to be an impractical one. At the same time, there was need to repair our old house. I used to keep thinking of how I could improve our living conditions, but due to the low income, it was difficult to put our plans into action," she says.

Things started to fall in place when the family learnt about PMAY-U. Smt. Hetalben immediately applied for assistance under PMAY-U and within a year, her pucca house stood tall in front her eyes. "I waited for years to build my dream house and then, I was told that the Government is providing financial assistance to build a house. I wasted no time in submitting my application and today, I am sitting comfortably in my own house and sharing my success story with you all," she says.

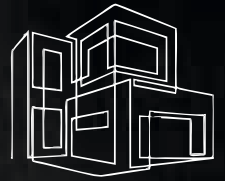

PMAY-U Scheme has given the family a new lease of life. "Even for studies, my son faced a lot of problems. Now he has a separate space to study. Our worries were put to rest in no time. Those relatives who were not ready to visit us before due to our pitiable condition, are now eagerly waiting for the invitation," says Smt. Hetalben, adding, "I feel strengthened now, I can run my own business and can take care of my family."

Smt. Hetalben is a proud owner of a pucca house with all basic amenities as well as the owner of a tiffin service business. "I receive various orders, now people know where I live since I have a permanent address," she explains.

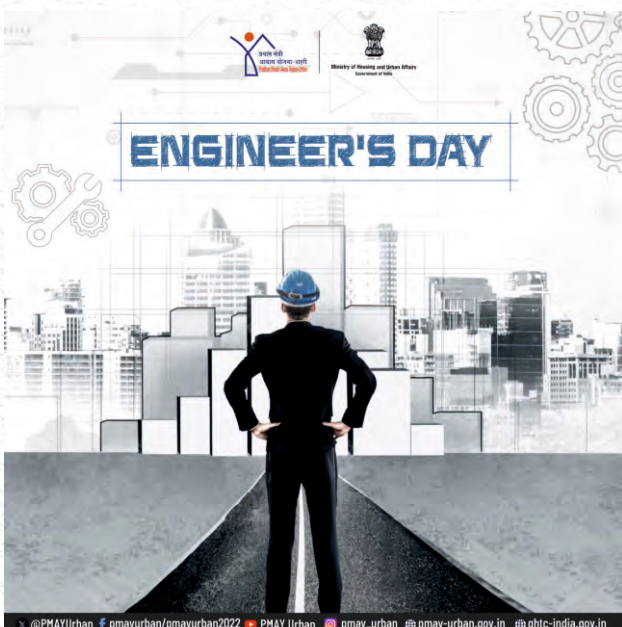

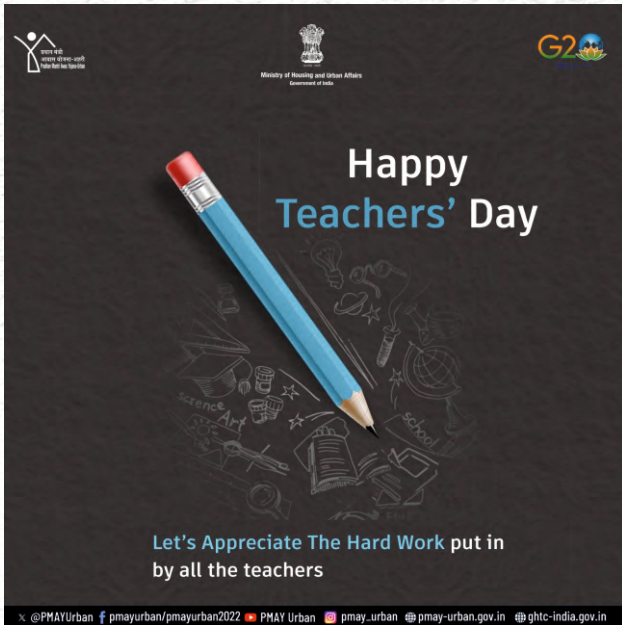

PMAY-U works on the ethos of Sabka Sath, Sabka Vikas, wherein focus has always been on inclusive development of beneficiaries. A pucca house has an interlinking impact on families. It improves their quality of life, gives access to better health, education and livelihood opportunities and a house in the name of women helps them to have a say in the family with better decision-making abilities and moreover, ensures a dignified and safe living for them. These women have put every inch of their house to a productive and successful use.

Happy PMAY-U
