

CHITRA Saravanan

TAMIL NADU

Chitra Saravanan, a PMAY(U) beneficiary from Salem, Tamil Nadu, doesn't bother about her children's future anymore. The pucca house which she got under PMAY(U) Scheme has given her family a ladder to dream big in life. Her husband works a daily wage labourer. With his income and government fund, they constructed their pucca house.

"I also supported my husband in building the house. Our children were growing up and it was difficult for five of us to live in a kutchra house. The house did not have proper toilet, water or kitchen facilities. We had to struggle a lot. The kids were good in studies, but due to lack of space, they faced difficulty in continuing with the education," Chitra Saravanan says.

To realise their dream of building a house, the couple bought a small plot of land in Salem. With the help of PMAY(U) Scheme and their savings, they constructed their own home.

"Now, there is no fear of extreme weather conditions. With the house, our social status has improved. I thank our Hon'ble Prime Minister for helping us," she says.

Chitra Saravanan categorically added that the house has made one of her daughters a teacher. She says that due to the house, she believes that her daughters will get good alliances for marriage.
